Accelerate Employment History Verification

Problem

Collecting, recording, and verifying income and employment data can drain precious time and resources while still not giving you all of the data points that you need to assess credit worthiness of your customers.

Solution

Truv instantly and accurately provides all the employment history data points that you need, reducing friction as you enable your customer base to make more informed decisions.

Traditional Approach

Expensive Automated Verifications

Keep pace with skyrocketing verification costs and unpredictable price increases within the industry.

Slow Turnaround

Document uploads and employer cold calls often take up to three days to verify income and employment.

Low Success Rate

Running top of the waterfall ahead of your own database increases your expenses.

“The skyrocketing costs made employment verification unprofitable for us and was preventing me from servicing my clients. My customers were shocked by the extra fees, and many just stopped doing employment verification as part of their screening process, especially those where it isn’t a federal requirement. Truv helped us to solve this problem”
